

Kamëntsá Language Revitalization Project

Preserving a Sacred Language. Reviving a Living Culture.

A Sacred Language on the Brink

The Kamëntsá Nation of Colombia's Sibundoy Valley—guardians of the sacred plant Yagé (Ayahuasca) and carriers of ancient ecological wisdom—stand at a pivotal crossroads. Today, only 6% of the population is fluent in their ancestral tongue. Without urgent action, the Kamëntsá language could disappear within a decade.

When a language dies, a world dies with it: songs, prayers, medicinal knowledge, and the very map of how to live in harmony with nature.

Our Response

In June 2025, with seed support from Chacruna's Indigenous Reciprocity Initiative ($4,000 secured) and our sister organization Circle of Sacred Nature (USA), OIOC launched the Moch Huasginch Kamëntsá School—a groundbreaking program for endangered language revitalization rooted in Indigenous knowledge systems and community-based education.

The school serves as a space for language learning and is also a center for Indigenous-led research, documentation, and investigation of ancestral knowledge. Through this work, the wisdom of elders is preserved, recorded, and shared, ensuring its intergenerational transmission to future generations.

- Today, 200 students—children, youth, and elders—are actively enrolled, learning side by side.
- 4 Indigenous teachers lead intensive weekly instruction.

- A motivation bonus system ensures accountability and measurable results: students who complete the 16-week course and demonstrate progress receive a $200 bonus upon completion. This system—our largest budget item—is designed not as a handout, but as recognition of effort, discipline, and results, making accountability concrete and ensuring that investment translates into measurable learning outcomes.
- An interactive curriculum—rooted in oral tradition, music, theater, and storytelling—has been designed for true intergenerational transmission of the Kamëntsá worldview.
- In 2025, integration with the formal school system began, with 280 children at Champagnan School now receiving Kamëntsá classes and experiencing a transformation of their learning environment through signage in the ancestral language.

This work is far more than teaching words. It is the rebuilding of identity, dignity, and memory, and a vital act of Amazon cultural survival that reinforces the deep link between language and biodiversity.

Expansion (July – November 2025)

Building on this foundation, the Moch Huasginch Kamëntsá School will expand its reach and deepen its impact in the coming months. Our focus is to strengthen both the teaching of the language and the Indigenous-led documentation of knowledge, ensuring that this revitalization process is sustainable and community-driven.

Planned activities include:

- Continue intensive weekly sessions for 200 students, guided by 4 Indigenous teachers.

- Develop illustrated materials, theater pieces, and music recordings as permanent cultural resources for learning and documentation.
- Expand integration into formal schools by producing and installing signage in Kamëntšá (e.g., secretary, library, classrooms), reinforcing visibility and daily use of the language.
- Strengthen the motivation bonus program to ensure accountability and measurable results, recognizing students' dedication and achievements with completion bonuses.
- Advance Indigenous-led research and documentation to record oral traditions, ecological knowledge, and ceremonial chants—building a living archive to guide future generations.

This next phase will not only continue teaching but also create the resources and systems needed for the long-term survival of the Kamëntšá language, ensuring its transmission across generations and its recognition as an essential part of Amazonian cultural and ecological resilience.

Financial Plan (July – November 2025)

The Kamëntšá Language Revitalization Program is designed to ensure accountability, measurable results, and maximum community impact. Every contribution directly supports the efforts to sustain teachers, motivate students, and create lasting cultural resources.

Total Budget: USD $46,190 (COP 184,760,000)

Funds Secured: USD $4,000 from Chacruna's Indigenous Reciprocity Initiative

Remaining Need: USD $42,190

SACRED NATURE

Category	Cost in COP	Cost in USD	Description
Teachers (4 for 4 months)	16,000,000	4,000	Stipends for Indigenous teachers leading weekly classes
Student Motivation Bonuses	160,000,000	40,000	$200 bonus for each student completing the 16-week program and demonstrating progress
Creation of Materials	5,000,000	1,250	Research, documentation, theater scripts, music, and cultural documentation
Student Support & Administration	3,760,000	940	Materials and Administration fees
Total	184,760,000	46,190	Every dollar is tied to direct impact: teachers are supported, students are motivated, and materials are created for long-term cultural use.

This budget reflects our belief that investment must translate into results: teachers are supported, students are motivated to complete the course, and materials are created for long-term cultural use.

With your support, this funding will sustain a full 16-week cycle for 200 students and 4 teachers, expand cultural documentation, and ensure that the Kamëntsa language is not only taught, but lived, remembered, and transmitted.

Why It Matters

Revitalizing the Kamëntsa language is an urgent act of endangered language revitalization and Amazon cultural survival—a defense of both culture and ecology. Its extinction would not only erase a language but also sever a vital link between language and biodiversity, where ancestral words carry ecological knowledge, sustainable practices, and ceremonial wisdom for living in balance with the forest.

The disappearance of Kamëntsa would be like losing a plant or animal species: each word carries ancestral memory, spiritual chants, and Indigenous knowledge systems that cannot be replaced. Through community-based education and intergenerational transmission, this program ensures that children, youth, and elders learn together, keeping the language alive as a living system of knowledge.

The motivation bonus system, while our most significant cost, is central to this approach. It transforms language learning into a commitment with accountability and results, ensuring consistency, discipline, and measurable progress. Alongside teaching, the program also invests in Indigenous-led research, documentation, and investigation, preserving the wisdom of elders in ways that can guide future generations.

Supporting this project means safeguarding one of the world's most unique living heritages—while empowering Indigenous-led solutions for today's intertwined crises of culture, ecology, and spirit.
